Story of a Plate

On a pretty March day a motor van lumbered onto the campus and disgorged 45 large boxes shipped from England, marked "crockery". This was, of course, the Wesleyan Wedgwood china ordered two years ago, when our stocks of commemorative plates and cups and saucers were being depleted.

The newest shipment from Staffordshire comes in one color only, mulberry, and in two scenes, the original building of Old Wesleyan, and the former Candler library, soon to be our Alumnae Center.

With unpacking and checking over — not a piece broken! — sales began briskly, with seniors starting their sets and others buying wedding and birthday presents. Increased costs result in higher prices, says Frances Bruce Van Horn, Alumnae Director. Many decades ago, when Wesleyan first issued the china, in four designs and four colors, plates were $2.25, as were c-and-c's. With the years, and inflation, the current listing is $6.00 each, plus tax, shipping and handling. Orders may be placed with the Alumnae Office.

The last Candler plate went to Evelyn Wright Banks, '14, at Banks-haven, Newnan, Ga. First of the new issue travelled to Margaret Harris Freeman, also '14, in Beverly Hills, Calif. Our outgoing president, Nina Sheppard Terrill, received a set of these lovely dishes in appreciation of her service as president of our Alumnae Association the past three years.

WESLEYAN COLLEGE NOW is published by the Wesleyan Alumnae Assn. six times a year, in October, December, February, April, June, August: four newsletters (News of Wesleyan), and two magazines, with the purpose of keeping alumnae in touch with each other and with their Alma Mater. Office of Publication: Wesleyan College, 4760 Forsyth Road, Macon, Ga. 31201.

THE SPIRIT OF GRADUATION DAY

Her brand-new Wesleyan College diploma is proudly shown by Licia Drinnon, to her aunt, Elizabeth Drinnon Lewis, '43, and to younger sister, Lauren. Highest honor graduate in the '73 class, Licia made history as the first student to graduate summa cum laude on the three year degree program. Her mother, Elizabeth McCants Drinnon, '48, lighted her candle on Alumnae Day.

Commencement

At Wesleyan's 134th commencement on May 21, 75 seniors received diplomas, engraved, as is our tradition, on real sheepskin.

Top of the class was Licia Drinnon, Macon, first ever to graduate summa cum laude on the three year degree program. Her name will be added to those on the Mortar Board plaque hanging in the Willet library. Licia has won a summer internship and a scholarship from the Newspaper Fund, supported by Dow Jones.

Mitsuko Nakamura Anders, of Japan, a magna cum laude piano student of Linda Lane, received the Chenery Award for Excellence in Music and will go on to graduate work. Jill Gerber (cum laude), Winter Haven, Fla., won the Royce Walker Award for Excellence in Written English; the Susie Martin Catchings award for the greatest progress in music went to three: Cathy Hinchliffe, Smyrna, Ga.; Eugenia Shelton, Cordele, Ga.; and Kay Tucker, McRae, Ga.

Others receiving magna cum laude were Miriam McElheney Jordan, Margaret McKinnon Mathews, Anne Thornton, Mitsuko Nakamura Anders, Earline Gammel, Verderie Eugenia Shelton. Cum laude: Mae Louise Darsey, Bonny Jill Gerber, Caron Griffin, Beverly Jane Hinely, Janice A. Mays, Susan Harris Tibbitts, Sharon Elizabeth Lynch, Eloise Bruce Whitmire.

REUNION OF QUILLIANS AT WESLEYAN

Many who knew and loved the boy, Bill, came to hear him speak at Wesleyan Commencement. Among them was his mother, Nonie Acree Quillian, '09, whose husband was president of the College for a number of years. She drove down from Atlanta with Irene Sewell Hobby, '22. Daughter Christine, whose late husband, Dr. Hubert Searcy, was president of Huntingdon College, lives in Montgomery, Ala.

“Beyond Disillusionment”

Address by Dr. William F. Quillian

It was a “very special occasion” — special for Dr. William F. Quillian, who came back to Wesleyan on May 20 as Baccalaureate speaker, and special to Wesleyan College, which his father had served as president and where young Bill grew up, along with his sister Christine.

As a little boy he sold magazines to the faculty and students; in 1928 he moved with the family from Old Wesleyan out to Rivoli, his father’s “dream” come true. At 18 he entered Yale, went on to marry the daughter of the president, and eventually to become president of Randolph-Macon Women’s College, in Lynchburg, Va., and a recognized American educator.

The first task of education is to bring disillusionment, said the speaker. “Not in a cynical or ultimately despairing sense, but rather in becoming aware of the flimsiness of our pretensions both to virtue and goodness (as in Camus) and also to knowledge (as in Plato).

“Some students foolishly conclude that they are educated when they reach this first stage. Having had some of their comfortable ideas and beliefs — in religion, economics, politics, concerning other cultures, races and nations — disturbed, they make the mistake of thinking they have come to the end of the road.

“The truth is that they have only begun the long and never-ending road of education. This becoming aware of the illusions which all of us acquire in our youth is really a preparation for the long, often difficult, journey toward truth — the second and, supreme goal of education, namely, the cultivation of mental power . . .

“I am not much impressed by the simple fact that one has been given a diploma carrying with it the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science. I know that it is possible to qualify for such a diploma and degree without any real cultivation of one’s mental power. And right here is one of the greatest shortcomings of our American system of education. Whereas in the schools of antiquity, philosophers aspired to impart wisdom; in modern colleges our humbler aim is to teach subjects.

“One of the soundest bits of wisdom for the new college graduate is found in Alfred North Whitehead’s words from The Aims of Education where he writes: ‘Your learning is useless to you till you have lost your textbooks, burnt your lecture notes, and forgotten the minutiae which you learnt by heart for the examination’ . . .

“This is fine provided one condition is met; it is that your college experience has brought a cultivation of mental power.

What is meant by mental power? By this I am referring to the capacity to meet and to deal constructively and creatively with the many challenges and uncertainties which come to all of us. These challenges will confront you in relation to your citizenship responsibilities, in relation to your role as a wife or mother, husband, or in relation to your role as a teacher or business man or woman or doctor or nurse — and in so many other ways . . .

“How does such a cultivation of mental power take place? (1) In the first place, it is not something which someone else can do for us or give to us. The cultivation of mental power begins when a student realizes that real learning is a matter of discovery. No one can give you an education, no matter how many items of information one may impress upon you. Rather, the educated person is characterized by something which has happened within that person. He is not the one who is a kind of walking encyclopedia of facts; rather, the educated person is one whose creative imagination has been so kindled that he sees not merely bare facts, but facts invested with all their possibilities.

“(2) Though no one else can present you with properly cultivated mental power, — this must take place from within you — it is possible for outside influences to afford some stimuli and some direction which can assist in this inner growth. This is the role played by the great teacher — and I know that you have the opportunity for this kind of stimulus here at Wesleyan. Those faculty members who wear their learning with imagination are the ones who inspire within us that spirit of discovery which characterizes any true and important kind of learning. . . I could hope for nothing better from this graduating class than that some of you would become just such teachers . . .

“Education is in the forefront of all serious discussions about the present and future strength and quality of our society. Whether you realize it or not, you along with others of your generation, will be the leading participants in charting the course of education in the years ahead.

“There is an absolute and unavoidable rule which operates in modern life: The race which does not value trained intelligence is doomed. No amount of heroism, no social charm, no victories on land or sea or in the air can or will serve in our day as a substitute for that mental power which is the mark of the educated person . . .

“I congratulate you upon your graduation and I challenge you to a never-ending growth in mental power with the personal happiness and the increasing social usefulness which this will bring.”

Alumnae Weekend . . . May 4-5

CAME THE FURTHEST

Hanson Hayes Higginbotham, '38, travelled all the way from California (Pasadena). Others streamed in from Texas, Alabama, Virginia, Indiana, Delaware, the Carolinas, Tennessee, and Florida. Many brought husbands, and some children.

Grand Homecoming In '74

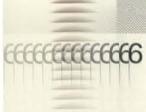

A grand home-coming in 1974, an in-gathering of alumnae of all years will celebrate the establishment of the Alumnae Center in the Candler Building. Events will be programmed in and around this architectural gem that for 20 years housed the library, with special attention given to Golden, Silver, and Thirty-fifth reunioners (1924, 1949, 1939). Watch for the date and plan to come, everybody!

Renovation of the building is proceeding on schedule, with completion set for Sept. 1, according to President W. Earl Strickland. By the opening of the school year the Alumnae offices, also Public Relations, should be occupied.

The Georgian style, three-story building was designed by Phil Shutze in 1928, and donated by the late Judge John Slaughter Candler, of Atlanta, in memory of his parents. Miss Katharine P. Carnes, '13, presided there as librarian. Alumnae have contributed $60,000 of the $160,000 to be spent on the building; an elevator was made possible by Anne Winship Bates Leach, of Palm Beach, honorary alumna of '71. The oval reading room will contain memorabilia.

"It is the sincere desire of the Alumnae that this building will serve to remind everyone associated with the College of the unique heritage of Wesleyan College, to unite them in the present program of the College, and to inspire them to future service for Wesleyan".

“Academe in Agony”

Harlee Branch, Jr. speaks

The sweet old days vied for attention with the bright years ahead at Alumnae Weekend in May. Returning Wesleyannes, deeply immersed in nostalgia, took stock of new curriculums, fund campaign progress, and the Alumnae Center being readied, and they found it good, very good.

“Kappy” Ellison Yundt, of the bumper crop of returnees of '48 wore her grandmother's Solomon medal for English composition (May Elizabeth Carroll Smith, 1888) round her neck, as she made the rounds Friday night from President's reception, to buffet dinner, to the Silver Anniversary party at Jane Mobley Dickey's. Next day she and her sisters attended Alumnae Day exercises, shone in the candle lights of the newest alumnae, agonized with Speaker Harlee Branch over “Academe in Agony,” and basked proudly as Mary McCowen Parker森 presented over $1000 toward furnishings for the new Alumnae Center.

They listened to citations and elected officers: Jackie Davis Richardson, president; Sandi Bell Shipp, Carol Golden, Emmie Carlton Johnson, and Mary Lane Edwards Cheek, vice presidents; Gwen Flanagan Hendrix, secretary; Laura Sullivan Barkley, treasurer; Martha Bell Lewis, member-at-large of Alumnae Board of Managers, and Marjorie Potts Durden, alumnae trustee.

It was a singing weekend, someone said, with songs by Casey Thurman, '65, Patricia Bonner Burton and Jacqueline Turner Burton, both of '62.

The two days resounded with music, from the chimes played by Herbert Herrington, '45, celebrating 25 years since he first came to teach at Wesleyan, to the closing Alma Mater after the luncheon.

Harlee Branch, Jr., well known educator and industrialist, spoke at annual Alumnae Day Saturday, May 6, on this subject. Here are some of his thoughts:

A serious crisis is currently confronting higher education in this country . . . a need for cash, a need for confidence, a need for colleagueship and cohesion

The 50's - '60's were years of unprecedented prosperity . . . Colleges were the darlings of government and philanthropy; it was a heady time in Academe

With the dawn of the '70's the bubble suddenly burst . . . enrollments declined . . . with the explosion of inflation expenses soared. By '71, 1500 (two thirds of the colleges and universities in this country) were in deep financial trouble; sixty percent (private four-year) were operating “in the red”, a dozen closed down, while others were in a state of “fragile stability”, achieved by cutting faculty, staff, and programs, increasing tuition, closing buildings, deferring maintenance (which may cut into quality of educational offerings).

In 1966, 61% of Americans had confidence in education; this has sunk to 33% . . . Anti-intellectualism raged in the '50's, during the McCarthy era . . . this receded with Sputnik . . . now again, there is a resurgence of anti-intellectualism with the general disenchantment with the Establishment. We assume this will pass away, but this is a dangerous assumption.

In the next decade the biggest problem facing colleges is the preservation of autonomy and independence . . . How to preserve individuality in the present homogenization and standardization of higher education? How to preserve uniqueness?

Pressures will not subside unless colleges demonstrate capacities for self-government, true colleagueship, cohesiveness . . . it may take Draconian measures

Tenure is under attack in many quarters . . . tenure is often the scapegoat for those careless in hiring

To unionize or not is the question of faculty on many campuses . . . proponents claim it would bring higher pay, security, and prevent increase in teaching loads . . . But what becomes of professional pride? What will unionization do to campus cohesion and colleagueship?

I can assure you that higher education is far from a corpse. We can save it with faith, courage, determination and commitment. Let us all rally to its support.

Mr. Branch was accompanied to Wesleyan by his two granddaughters, Ansley, 14, and Katherine, 12, who are granddaughters also of Sue Tanner McKenzie, '18, Atlanta.

Add Majors

During the past year some major adjustments were made in the curriculum at Wesleyan. In an effort to provide programs that are professionally oriented, the College has added majors in Business Administration and Pre-Professional Social Work.

The Business Administration major will be attractive to those young women who want to enter the field of business. The major will prepare them for graduate school, law school, executive training programs, or business.

The Pre-Professional Social Work major is an interdisciplinary major consisting of courses from Psychology, Sociology, and Political Science. The major is aimed at those students who are interested in becoming involved in social service work in the community or to continue their graduate education in the field of social work.

One other major was re-instituted during this academic year. After studying the feasibility and demand for physical education at Wesleyan it was decided that a physical education major with emphasis on teacher education would be re-introduced after a year's absence from the curriculum.

Retires

Cornelia Shiver, '25, for 21 years professor of history, the last two as chairman of the department, is retiring. She served as advisor to the History-Government club, secretary to Pi Gamma Mu, and advisor to the Veteropt staff. A silver bowl was presented to her on Alumnae Day and Dr. Bledsoe ('33) read a tribute.

Cornelia has travelled to almost every continent, often with her friend, Ernestine Bledsoe, chairman of education department (last summer they went to the South Pacific). This summer she will conduct a tour to ten countries of Europe. The 1972 Veteropt was dedicated to "Miss Shiver".

New Position

Alice Domingos, Macon, director of student aid since 1960, has been named assistant to the alumnae director. She has been associated with the College since her graduation in 1940, serving also as secretary to the Dean of Fine Arts, and 12 years as registrar. She will work chiefly with records and historical objects in the new Alumnae Center.

Ashes of MARY CULLER WHITE, Methodist missionary in China for 42 years, will be scattered over the city of Soochow, where she spent so many years. She died May 18, in Asheville, N. C., at the age of 98. "Miss Mary Culler" was known and admired by many. She returned to study journalism in 1928 under Miss Virginia Garner, and enjoyed referring to herself as a member of that class. She retired from her China work briefly in 1940, was forced by World War II to leave again in 1943. With Pearl Harbor she was interned by the Japanese for seven months, and repatriated in Sept., 1943. A frequent visitor to the campus, she devoted her later years to speaking and writing books.

Sympathy to the family of AGNES S. JONES TOWERS, Jacksonville, who died in March. She would have been 100 in July. Descended from the American Naval hero, John Paul Jones and British explorer Cook, she organized and was active in many areas of Jacksonville life.

VERA CLINTON McBIRNEY'S only surviving child, Martha, who lives with her, wrote JENNIE LOYAL MANGET that Vera's handsome home overlooking the river in Tulsa, Okla. had been turned into a museum for Vera's collection of salt-and-peppers given to her by friends and relatives all over the world.

'06

LOUIE FENN WOODWARD, Vienna, Ga., has been traveling with her two daughters. See Class Notes for '31 and '42.

'07

Sympathy to CLAIRE FLETCHER NESBIT, Cordele, Ga., on the passing of her sister, ANNIE KATE FLETCHER, '06, music teacher of Shreveport, La., and Columbus.

'08

Sympathy to FRANCES STEVENS DESSAU, Macon, on the passing of her sister, ESTELLE STEVENS MASON, '05, in February.

'09

Belated sympathy to the family of ELMA GRACE NEWTON, Griffin, Ga., who died on April 1 last year. Her son, Will Hill Newton, Jr., wrote:

"She was a loyal Wesleyan alumna and through her efforts several girls in Griffin selected Wesleyan as their college. She was very proud that she attended . . . Her mother, Fannie Blalock Grace, graduated from Wesleyan; both were members of Phi Mu."

BERTHA WINTER CARSWELL, Augusta, Ga., wrote with her contribution to Loyalty Fund: "I love Wesleyan, wonderful memories. Maybe some time we'll see each other."

SUSAN KRONER SHAW: "In the Feb. issue I was intrigued about Freda Nadler's proposed trip to China and perhaps a visit with Soong Ching Ling, who mentioned my name, 'Susie K. Kroner', whom she remembered among others. That brought back memories of the three Soong girls I knew at Wesleyan and whose fortunes I have been able to follow to some extent through the years through NONIE ACREE QUILLIAN and my Army brother in China for some years . . . My home and my husband's, since he retired, is in Daytona Beach, Fla., where we live in the winter. We still spend our summers at our cottage on Black Lake, Rte. 1, Onaway, Mich. . . . I wish for more news of the classes 1909-10, as well as the next three or four classes . . ."

'13

Sympathy to FRANCES GODFREY CANDLER, Madison, Ga., on the death of her husband, Samuel Charles Candler, in Feb. He was the son of the late Methodist Bishop Warren A. Candler, nephew of Asa G. Candler, founder of Coca-Cola Co.

LEAVES SHIP AT ISTANBUL
Louie Fenn Woodward, 84, goes on tour (See '31 and '42 Class Notes)

SOONG CHING LING, Shanghai, Peoples Republic of China, wrote your Editor from Shanghai on March 30: "Thank you for your nice letter and the copy of our latest magazine from which I learned that Lois Hatcher has just lost her husband. I shall be grateful if you'd kindly forward her the enclosed note. When I return to Peking I shall inquire about your visa problem. It is a fact that we are flooded with requests from would-be visitors that tourists stand little chance of securing approval this spring — yet I hope for the best." (She is the widow of Sun Yat Sen, first president of China, and serves as vice chairman of the PRC.)

'14

Sympathy to MARY FORT COLLEY, Grantville, Ga., on the passing of her son, Charles Stuart Colley, Jr., on May 6. Manager of the family business, Colley Farms, he was a gifted writer and civic and church leader.

MARGARET HARRIS FREEMAN Beverly Hills, Calif., wrote: "I appreciated so much the lovely Wedgwood plate of Wesleyan. I had wanted one for so long . . . I enjoyed so much the visit from the Stricklands. They are very wonderful people. Are we not fortunate to have them at Wesleyan? I love all of you."

VERNA FRENCH SHAFFER, Columbus, Ga. wrote: "Was thrilled to read about the Lane Steinway in this morning's paper. Linda is and was always so fine. Best wishes to you for the ongoing of the Oldest and Best!" We have missed this loyal alumna at various functions; her husband is 84.

'19

A beautiful appreciation of the late FRANCES GURR McLANAHAN written by Terry A. Murray, New York, was received by your Editor.

The antique desk presented by LUCIA CHAPPELL DOMINGOS, Macon, to the Lighthouse, Museum of Coastal History, St. Simons Island, Ga., is believed to have belonged to Gen. Oglethorpe, who first settled Georgia. It has been stored in Lucia's attic for years.

WILLIE SNOW ETHRIDGE, Moncure, N. C., spoke at commencement and received the Doctor of Laws degree at Mercer University's exercises on Sunday, June 3. Willie taught at Mercer, as did her husband, Mark, retired editor and publisher. Author of 14 books, this popular speaker at Wesleyan and many other places, has been given the Doctor of Letters degree from the U of Kentucky, Doctor of Literature from Ohio Wesleyan, and received the Minerva Award of Merit from the U of Louisville.

ELIZABETH GARRETT PAGE, Dublin, Ga., wrote that they were "so proud" to have Eugenia Rawls perform for the Parnassus Club and receive with her husband, Donald Seawell, shillelaghs from the mayor of Dublin.

MAMIE HARMON, New York, was in Macon Alumnae Weekend, which coincided with the induction of her late brother George Harmon into Mercer's Athletic Hall of Fame. At the annual Athletes' Breakfast Mamie accepted the plaque from Trot Ware, "Super Bear", and husband of KATHERINE CATCHINGS WARE, '27. Mamie has just finished writing the article on "Folk Art" for the new Encyclopedia Britannica, designs books and book jackets. She plans to spend part of the summer at her house in Canada. EMILY BROWN EDWARDS entertained several classmates in honor of Mamie at a dinner and spend-the-night-party at Holly Bluff Sat. night.

Sympathy to ETHEL ROSENBERG BASS, Orlando, Fla., on the death of her husband, Walter C. Bass, in Jan. He was former city commissioner and honorary director of the Central Florida Fair Assn.

HELEN GOEPP McCARREN, Macon, reports that her daughter Mary Jane is singing in the choir at St. Wilfred's Episcopal Church and helps with the church schools, likes living in Fla. very much. Wife of the rector is JOSEPHINE PENDLETON GRAHAM, '66, Sarasota, Fla.

ELIZABETH COATES JAMES, Macon, was the subject of a lengthy feature article in the Macon NEWS, on Jan. 24, written by Joyce Rice Ellison, '72, staff writer. Elizabeth, mother of two daughters, and grandmother of seven, has taught the past three years at Mark Smith High, after a number of years of college teaching and writing. Her column, "Great Books in Brief", was syndicated for five years when she was in her twenties, and since has appeared in book form, along with two plays. She is writing a play on Paul of Tarsus, and dabbles in poetry.

MARGARET EDENFIELD, Macon, was presented the Gladys M. Thomas Distinguished Service Award by the Georgia Council of Teachers of Mathematics, in Atlanta in March. She received the McKibben Lane Award for Excellence in Education in 1964, and was selected as Sixth District Star Teacher in 1972. She earned her MA at Mercer U, holds a Specialist in Education degree in the field of mathematics. This "master Teacher" has also trained student teachers.

Sympathy to MARY POWELL CRITTENDEN, Dublin, Ga., on the death of her sister, FLOYE POWELL DUMAS, Port Charlotte, Fla., last Aug. 20.

ALICE KATHERINE LANIER, Statesboro, Ga., sent a check to express her "love for Wesleyan". She wrote: "One of my richest blessings is the fact that my Mother and Father selected Wesleyan for me while I was a small girl. Since graduation I have had the privilege of being there twice for the School of Missions. Such pride and nostalgia filled me as I recalled my four years as a student . . . Am encouraged to see where enrollment has increased. May 'my school' continue to prosper and be an inspiration." Alice's husband, Hubert, retired as a Lt. Col. in the Army 12 years ago, and they came home "for keeps". Their three children are married.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD BRADLEY and her husband, Harold, of Greensboro, N. C., invited her mother, LOUIE FENN WOODWARD, '06, of Vienna, Ga. (age 84!) to accompany them on a tour of Europe and the Greek Isles last fall, "something she had always dreamed of doing." They visited Rome, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Austria, and England. "Mama enjoyed Dubrovnik and Vienna, Austria most", wrote her daughter. "On shipboard she shared a stateroom with Miss Carol Robertson, of Union, S. C., a retired professor

MYRL AYCOCK WOODS moved to Houston, Tex., in January of last year, reports she likes the life there and that life is never dull. "With most colleges and universities now in a chaotic condition, it is gratifying to know that Wesleyan still holds her standards high. I am proud to claim Wesleyan as my own and in turn, I strive to live a life of dignity so that Wesleyan will always claim me also."

MARGUERITE JOHNSTON WHITE, sending the name of a prospective student wrote: "My weekend at Wesleyan was wonderful and I want to thank you all. They say you can't go back, but going back and being with the same people makes it a great experience. It was glorious . . . I hope to come back any time our group gets together."

SUSAN MAGETTE has moved to a house in N. Charleston, N. C., that is "older, smaller, and much nearer in five minutes from work, around the corner from church". In addition to the Navy (she's a Commander), she sings in the choir, is on the vestry and chairman of the Church Women, is in Sweet Adelines and various professional and civic organizations. "Remember me to all the nice people around Wesleyan. NOW just arrived and is so exciting. I'm sorry again that I won't be with you on the 5th. The enclosed check is in honor of the class of 38's 35th reunion, in

ALPHA BOYD MADDOX has moved from Columbus, Ga., to Covington, La. On Feb. 1 she retired from the First National Bank, after more than 31 years. Alpha was elected Secretary of the Year in 1964 by the Port City chapter of National Secretaries, which she helped found. She has two grandchildren, and hopes there is a Wesleyan club in New Orleans! The bank newsletter for March carried an entire front page on Alpha, with six pictures, in March.

WINIFRED MILAM RICH, Manchester, Ga.: "Just a note to thank you for sending the name and address of the alumna in Korea — Mrs. Youngbak Hyun (Bo Hi Yun). We had a delightful visit with her. She is teaching music at Ewah College in Seoul, Korea. She is a charming person and we fell in love with her and her country. Her memories of Wesleyan are very happy ones, and we both enjoyed reminiscing."

ANN MARIA DOMINGOS, Macon, was the recipient of an annual McKibben Lane Award for excellence in teaching in May. She teaches third grade at Joseph Clisby school, is prominent in the work of the United Methodist Church. Anne Maria serves as an Alumnae Trustee.

SUE McLENDON MOYE, Lumpkin, Ga.: "Catherine Massie writes a very convincing letter! Here's my check for Wesleyan to make up for missing last year. CHRISTINE SPIVEY ROUNTREE lost her husband, W. R. Rountree, in a terrible automobile accident Feb. 3. Those of us who made the Wesleyan European trip in '68 have had a reunion each year since. Our husbands have been such a congenial part of this fun time, so we got to know Chris' husband well. We are shocked beyond words." Our deepest sympathy to Chris.

FRANCES LINDSLEY CARTER moved from Atlanta to St. Simons, Ga. — "At last we have come back to our island — business and all, April 1. (Carter Interiors). Daughter Lindsley, Wesleyan '66, lives in Macon with two future Wesleyannes — we hope!"

Sympathy to CHRISTINE SPIVEY ROUNTREE, Swainsboro, Ga., on the death of her husband, W. H. Tumpy Rountree, City Councilman and banker, in a motor accident in Feb.

ELEANOR SHELTON MORRISON wrote: "I am in the last stages of a PhD program at Michigan State U, as well as teaching there, in the Family and Child Sciences Dept. On April 1 I have an anthology of readings being published by National Press Books of Palo Alto, Calif., 'Human Sexuality—Issues and Perspectives'. I have a daughter in the Christian Community, Koinonia, at Americus, so I still have some ties with Georgia." (We thank Betsy W. Cook for sending this information, via MATTIE LEE MULLIS BAXLEY).

IDA LONG ROGERS, Nashville, Tenn.: (Award Winner) "You must know how much Alumnae Day 1973 meant to me. The long association of my family with Wesleyan becomes more important through the years . . ." Ida is a niece of the late Miss Lois Rogers, of the College faculty.

DR. LOUIE WOODWARD MARSHALL and husband, George, Martinez, Ga., took her mother, Mrs. J. L. Woodward, of Vienna, Ga., to witness the final Apollo flight last Dec. "It was great fun to take our 84, soon to be 85 year old mother, who grew up in the horse and buggy days to see the marvel of modern times", wrote Lee. "Along with thousands of other people of all ages we drove onto the Cape, parking about three miles from the launch site. It was one big picnic . . . the rocket was well-lighted by special flood lights . . . When blast-off came it was like Judgment Day might be — great light, rumbling, roaring, crackling noise, then the earth trembled. It was truly awesome . . ."

JEAN OVERSTREET ADAMS, Elberton, Ga., wrote with her contribution: "I am thrilled that Candler Library is now the Wesleyan Alumnae building."

Sympathy to SHIRLEY KASSNER SULLIVAN, Atlanta, on the sudden death of her husband, Troy, in May. Their son, Tobey, stationed in Japan with the USAF, returned for the military funeral. Shirley writes book reviews for Atlanta, Macon, and other newspapers.

Reunion Class of '46 had 17 classmates and 12 husbands to return for part or all of the activities, reports JANE KOLLOCK McCALL, Atlanta, class president. The party was held at the lovely home of Mort and BEVERLY BURGESS MEADORS. Delicious refreshments were served and everyone enjoyed looking at pictures and chatting, and wrote news about themselves:

PAT MARKEY SHELL came from West Columbia, Texas! She has 5 children, two married. The oldest son is in Med school. Pat is curriculum director in her school district, but finds time for community work and social activities. "Decided at 3:00 PM yesterday to come — caught 6:30 AM plane at Houston today and am so thankful I did! It's wonderful to be with the group here — just wish I could have seen others, too."

MAE EASON HALL, Fortson, Ga., is a proud grandmother. Daughter, DIANA HALL RICHARDSON ('69) and husband have a future Wesleyanne, Amy, born in December. Mae's son, Chuck, is a senior at Columbus College and Frances, 10, goes to Brookstone School. Mae keeps busy with her garden club and is a Master Flower Show judge. She brought husband, Charles, to the reunion.

MARY LOUISE DAVIS GAVIGAN came from Moultrie, Ga. Son, Hank, will attend Governor's Honors this summer studying science. Stephen, 9, plans to go to camp. "Bob and I hope to go trailering in our Air-stream trailer while they are away."

LOU MATTERSON JONES, Jonesboro, Ga., is another proud grandmother. She has a five month old granddaughter. Lou's 16 year old daughter is in Jonesboro High. Lou is still working for her handsome husband, Harry, in the lumber business. They both came back.

JANE SPEARMAN STRUBY, Macon, came to Wesleyan while husband, Bert, attended his Mercer reunion. Son, Neil, is a student at Mercer and their daughter, Cynthia, works for the newspaper in Columbia, S. C.

LOUISE PATE SKENE, Macon, and husband, George, who is a State Senator, came. Louise works in George's law office. They have four children. Neil graduates from Vanderbilt, where he was editor of the school paper. Daughter Mary is a rising senior at Huntington and Pate is a rising senior at Vanderbilt. Lynn will enter Huntington as a Freshman in Sept.

RUTH MIDDLEBROOKS BARNWELL lives in Atlanta with husband, Jim, and their four children. Jimmy, a Vietnam veteran, is finishing his fourth and last year in the Air Force. Vance, a '72 Ga. graduate, will enter Law school at the University in Sept.

Lisa is in second year at Ga. Southern and Margaret is a 10th grader at Northside High.

SUE LOTT CLARK is developing an activity museum at Waycross, Ga.; right now she is securing a steam locomotive. William is a student at Davidson College and Jim plans to enter Davidson next fall. Husband, Bill, was unable to attend reunion with Sue this time. He is an ophthalmologist. BECKY YATES ANDERS is still a part-time practicing OB-gyn specialist with husband, Pat, in East Point. They have two children in college, at Mercer and at Ga. State. David, 10th grader, will attend Governor's Honors in science. Mark, Tim, and Janet complete the scene at home.

ADELAIDE WALLACE PONDER, Madison, Ga. editor, received a medal of merit award at the Pi Delta Epsilon National Collegiate Journalism Honorary Fraternity national convention held this year at Wesleyan. Her daughter, MARY GRAHAM, was graduated this May.

LINA JONES ARNOLD and husband, Maurice, came from Hawkinsville, Ga. They have two children at the University of Ga., one at Mercer, and their youngest daughter will enter Wesleyan next Sept. on early enrollment.

VIRGINIA HARRIS HOWARD and husband, Lee, came from Smyrna, Ga., where Lee has a lumber yard. They have four children. Wallace attended West Ga. College and is now working at the family business. Ginny Ann is married and living in Chicago. Tom is in high school, and Andy is married and living in Greenville,

S. C. Virginia is vice-president of the NMW at Atlanta First Methodist. ALICE CHILDS GOLSON and husband, Francis, came to the party. Alice teaches high school and Francis is an officer with the bank in Gray, Ga. They have a married son living in Tucker. Lynn ('72) will receive her Master's degree from UGa. in June, and Ruthie will graduate from Auburn in June and then marry.

HELEN PROCTOR MORRIS, Statesboro, Ga., has a daughter in Atlanta, with her husband and baby daughter. Frank is a Sophomore at Tech and Suzanne is in Jr. High. Husband, Robert, came to the activities, too.

ROSALYN LANE McMURRAY, Roanoke, Ala., and Jimmy came to reunion. Their two oldest sons married during the past year. Daughter, Lane, plans to attend Wesleyan in '74. Rosalyn teaches in high school and was sponsor for both the Junior play and the Honor Society Induction assembly. She is now taking a course in the new grammar from Auburn. Youngest son is 13 and active in band. He went to the Dogwood Festival in Knoxville, where their band won first place in street drill and parade.

BEVERLY BURGESS MEADORS, Macon, is chairman of the educational fund raising campaign for the Bibb County Cancer Society. Her son, Lynn, graduates from Emory med school in June and will intern in Louisville, Ky. Daughter, Tamsen, will enter UGa. in Sept as a Junior.

These could not come, but sent their news:

MARGIE SOULIE CHANDLER, Atlanta, wrote that her husband is chairman of the Sociology Dept. at West Georgia College. Son, Steve, a graduate of Eckerd, is on Gov. Carter's Staff. Ken, 21, is a senior at Eckerd, and Mark, 15, is in the ninth grade. He hopes to go to the Governor's Honors Program at Wesleyan this summer.

JOY LAWLESS TRIPP, Hartford, Conn., wrote she would be unable to come because of her daughter's graduation from high school. Joy was truly missed because she always comes bouncing in with her "undying" class spirit!

JEAN GIBBONS COWDEN sent her news from Bauxite, Ark., where her husband works for Alcoa: They came to Georgia in March to attend the graduation of their son from Tech and their daughter-in-law from Georgia State. Daughter Jeannie's husband is in Med school. Jean said they could not make two round trips to Georgia so close together.

KATHARINE SMITH GLOVER writes, "If I live long enough perhaps

CLASS OF '46

They came from near and far — even Texas!

I will one day manage to be in Macon for a class reunion." She and her husband have three children. Joe, Jr., is an honor student in high school. Karen, 20, is at LSU. David, 8, "wants to be a bartender so we might as well forget about his ever making the Alumnae News!"

TRACY MISHOE JONTE was unable to attend because of work. Their oldest son, Bobby, is a student at Wofford. Leonard will finish Williamsburg Academy, in Kingstree, S. C., next year and Marge will be in the eighth grade. Tracy and husband, Bob, both work at the bank in Greelyville, S. C.

ANNE MORRISON KILLEBREW married a widower with three children. The girl is teaching in Montgomery, having graduated from Huntington College last year. The two boys are living in California; one is married and has two daughters. Anne and her husband are ardent rose growers, boating enthusiasts and church workers.

ELLEN BARBER BATSON sent news from Wiggins, Miss., where they have lived for the last ten years. Brax is a consulting engineer there and Ellen teaches kindergarten. Daughter, Suellen, is married and living in Philadelphia, Miss. Scott, also married, is a commercial artist in Nashville, Tenn. Sally is a Freshman at Gulf Coast Jr. College and Anne is in high school.

MARTHA RUMBLE PIRKLE has five children and lives in Atlanta. Her oldest son, who is in Med school, is getting married in June. Her second son graduates from Emory and second daughter graduates from high school in June. Martha says, "Out of five children, four are in love — so we have a lively household and a lot of fun."

MAE HARDMAN wrote that since '71 she has been director of the Learning Center for the Rabun Gap Nacoochee School in Rabun Gap, Ga. She has recently been in contact with Doc Howell who lives in Highlands. Mae says, "The friends from Wesleyan will always be a part of my life and a large part of me is still full of memories as a Wesleyanne."

CLIFTON WIGHT QUINLY has been active as a Girl Scout leader for three years. She also belongs to the University Women at FSU where her husband, Bill, teaches in the College of Education. Their two daughters are Girl Scouts and their son has received the rank of Life Scout.

JANE WALLACE BAGGETT sent news that one daughter is a freshman at Ga. Southern and the other is a junior in high school where she was selected "Miss Southeast Teenager", sang in production of "Hello Dolly" and is going to Governor's Honors program this summer.

ELLEN MCKINNON REEDER, Jacksonville, Fla., and husband, Dave, whom she married in 1970, attended Alumnae Weekend. Ellen lost her first husband, Bob Austin, in 1964. They had four children, then 12, 13, 14, 15.

Sympathy to HELEN WALKER CLARK, Macon, on the death of her husband, Dr. Robert Allen Clark, after a brief illness in March. He was immediate past chief of staff of the Medical Center of Middle Georgia, and prominent in the field of neurosurgery.

EMILY BELL McNALLY, Atlanta, appeared in Macon as the stepmother in "Cinderella" which was presented by the Atlanta Children's Theatre this spring. Graduated in dramatics from Wesleyan's School of Fine Arts, Emily was one of the organizers of the Joe Jefferson Players in Mobile and won the Best Actress award several times. She is the daughter of WINNIFRED STILES BELL, '30, Mobile.

MARY EUYANG SHEN, Washington, D.C., who was our Alumnae Day speaker last year, wrote Director Frances Van Horn that the weekend was "perfect. Not many people knew you had planned this long before President Nixon made it fashionable to 'have everything Chinese'. . . . another indication of your astuteness and foresight. You all made me so proud that we are daughters of Wesleyan."

Living Memorial — 1946

The class of '46 has started a fund in memory of deceased classmates, to be known as "Living Memorial — 1946".

Anyone wishing to contribute to this continuous fund, please make your check payable to Wesleyan Alumnae Association, but write in corner of check "Living Memorial — 1946". The gifts will be added to the Grounds Maintenance Fund to help keep the Wesleyan campus a place of living beauty forever.

"I know of no better way to show our lasting love for Wesleyan and the classmates of '46 than by helping to keep the plantings on the campus alive and beautiful always", wrote Jane Kollok McCall, class president.

Jody, oldest daughter of Rodney and BETTY JO HOGAN COOK, Atlanta, is new president of Student Government at Tulane.

Congratulations to HAZEL ELIZABETH REES JOHANSEN, Palm Beach, Fla., whose husband, Capt. Julian E. Johansen, has been nominated by President Nixon for promotion to Rear Admiral.

LIBBA HARMON WOODALL, Woodland Georgia, mother of four sons, will achieve her ambition of having a child at Wesleyan when her youngest, Mark, attends Governor's Honors program on campus this summer.

ANN JOHNSON TUTT, chairman of Tourism for the Macon Chamber of Commerce, helped cut the birthday cake at the second anniversary of Macon's Tourist Information Center on I-75. She reports that over a million visitors have stopped at the Center. Ann Tutt's Gallery of paintings and gift items is also a center of local interest.

Thanks to ANNE WHIPPLE ALDERMAN for her check to the Emily Bell Scholarship Fund, also her tribute: "Each issue of NOW takes precedence over everything else in the household until I have read every interesting line in it. You represent Wesleyan well. My hope is that all of us 'daughters' will do as well".

Dr. George M. Parkerson, husband of MARY McCOWAN, has been named Director of Family Practice at the Medical Center of Central Georgia, Macon. They have four children.

LUCILLE BROWN MONTFORT, Houston, Tex., wrote: "Many fond memories have been recalled after receiving the letter from Bettijo on the 1948 reunion. I have also just finished reading the most interesting article by Dr. Page in Wesleyan College NOW. Even though I attended the old Conservatory for just my freshman year it was truly an outstanding year in my college life."

BEVERLY BANKS BOLAND wrote that a "mini-reunion" of 48-49'ers was held in Atlanta in March when JAN-EY LEWIS MARIN-FOUCHER, of Mexico City was in town. Others present were BETTIJO HOGAN COOK, DOTTIE ANNE SMITH SMITH, PEGGY PORTER GANTT, ROSALINE GILMORE BURK, MARY CHAMBERS REES, FRANC E S SCARRATT McDANIEL, SARA CURRY JONES.

POLLY PHELPS DECK, Charlottesville, Va. (after reunion): "It's difficult to imagine a merrier gathering.

WITH OLD FRIENDS

Girls of '43 were "small in number, large in love"; recognize Miss Gray, Dr. "Gin", Miss Strohecker, the Akers?

SILVER GIRLS OF '48 (Below)

They were plenty glamorous — and so were their husbands. All faces were "permanently creased by laughter and smiles . . . a refreshing homecoming!" (Mary Pate Hatfield gave inspirational talk to candlelighters and Seniors)

I departed feeling my face was permanently creased by laughter and smiles, and my spirit buoyant . . . It was a refreshing homecoming . . . I am heavily committed to many phases of local church work (educational assistant in a local Methodist church before marriage), serving as chairman of the Board of Deacons in Westminster Presbyterian (member 16 years), the first woman in this area to perform this duty of chainperson. My husband (professor of anatomy in W. Va.'s medical school) and I are members of International Hospitality, sponsored by U of Va., to meet and sustain foreign graduate students. The Decks have four children, from 15-6, two boys and two girls, whom they love to take on summer camping trips, with a tent.

MARY LANE EDWARDS CHEEK, Jacksonville, Fla., is off to East Africa with husband Warren and "all the children" (Warren, Jr., 17; Roxanne, 16; Emily Ellen, 14) — 22 days, "reservations in nice hotels near the game reservations, one night in Tree-tops." Mary Lane and her family, including her mother, EMILY BROWN EDWARDS, '26, were guests of JENNIE LOYALL MANGET at the Macon Writers' Club annual Breakfast in April. They also went over to see brother Crawford Edwards and wife (MILDRED TAYLOR EDWARDS, '57), who had moved into the new house they are building (only the upstairs was finished). The Edwards children are Bonnie and Brown. Mary Lane is a newly elected vice president of the alumnae.

EMMIE CARLTON JOHNSON and husband, Thomas, moved last June to Statesboro, Ga. where he is pastor of the First United Methodist Church. Tom, Jr., was a freshman at Young Harris College, along with Alan Hunt, son of Van and BETH PARKER HUNT, of Cedartown, Ga. Emmie's daughters are Nancy, 17, and Betsy, 14.

MARIAN ALLISON WEBB, Lawrenceville, Ga., appeared on the cover of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution Magazine on Sunday, June 3, in connection with a lengthy story she wrote entitled "Winning the Battle Against Breast Cancer." Her own early malignancy was discovered by an X-ray technique called mammography. Marian has done volunteer cancer work for 20 years; for 10 on the State Board of the American Cancer Society. For 15 years she brought out the NEWS HERALD, county weekly; she is the only woman ever named a life member of the Ga. Press Assn.

FRANCES AND FAMILY
Earl and Frances Scarratt McDaniel, '47, with Keith, 18, and Linda 15.

MERRITT PHILLIPS LANE has moved to Carrollton, Ga. "I certainly do enjoy receiving NOW, and wish to thank you for following me around", she wrote, ordering a Wesleyan plate of the Candler Alumnae building.

MARJORIE SCHEAR WAGGONER has moved from Decatur, Ga., to Stockbridge, Ga. "Should be our last move for quite a while", she wrote "as we have built a house in the same town as my husband's veterinary hospital. We are expecting a new baby in Aug.; son Jamie will be two in July."

WESLEYAN COLLEGE NOW

DONA D. VAUGHN: "Thank you for the honor bestowed upon me in your nomination for '1972 Outstanding young women of America'. I cannot begin to express my surprise and gratitude . . . My days at Wesleyan did so much to prepare me for the problems and obstacles I've confronted since graduating in May of 1966. The friends I made at Wesleyan have remained steadfast throughout the years. This winter I am continuing my studies toward a Master of Arts in Theatre at Hunter College here in New York. My work with the children at Cornell Medical Center is continuing also. When 'Company' closed, I went into the Broadway production of 'Jesus Christ, Superstar' for nine months. Having left that show in December, I am now in 'Seesaw', a musical based on 'Two for the Seesaw', which opened on Broadway just last night (March 18). Thoughts of Wesleyan are often with me and I do look forward to a class reunion in the near future . . ."

NAN N. McWILLIAMS is teaching in the Ulm American Elementary School, Ulm, Germany. In Sept. she will be teaching in Oslo, Norway.

KATHRYN STRIPLING BYER, Cullowhee, N. C., read her poetry on a program sponsored by the North Carolina Arts Council and Western Carolina U English Dept. on March 8. In 1968 she was awarded a Master's degree in writing at UNC-Greensboro, and also won The Academy of American Poets' prize for consolidated UNC. She writes that she was a double winner in the contest open to all residents of NC and Va., first prize in free verse and third in blank verse. "Miss Munck and Mr. Beckelheimer were quite helpful to me when I was first beginning to write." Her poetry has been published in magazines.

CAROL GOLDEN is taking a group of high school students on a study tour of France in June and July. They plan to be in Paris Bastille Day, July 14.

JEAN WIDNEY WYNN, besides being a housewife, is now choir director at First United Methodist Church in Maryville; she has responsibility for the adult choir and two handbell choirs.

PRISCILLA GAUTIER BORN-MANN, Ft. Belvoir, Va., writes: "We both enjoy Wesleyan College NOW very much. It's a pleasure to read, both in format and content. Thank you for helping us 'keep up'."

JUNE, 1973

NANCY AND SON

Nancy Rowland Rehberg, (Mrs. Charles) '66, Macon, with Philip Rowland Rehberg, born Dec. 18.

JANA WITHAM, Stamford, Conn., made her New York singing debut on March 3 at Carnegie Hall. After Wesleyan Jana won a full vocal scholarship to Northwestern, where she received her MM in voice. For two years she concentrated on German Lieder at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, and for the past three years has studied with Marinka Gurewich and Martin Rich.

CHERYL LEAGUE is still in Macon, working as a commercial artist for Progressive Printers, Inc., enjoys hearing from Wesleyan friends when they come back to Macon. She reports that HELEN BURGIN and husband, Bill, moved from Cuthbert to Columbus, Ga., in March. She hears regularly from her dear friend MARI-BETH WILLS LOWE, Atlanta, where husband Tom is a second year resident at Grady Memorial Hospital.

CONNIE BERG PLUNKETT, Carrollton, Ga., wrote in a long-lost letter, that after an absence of five years she found the campus little changed, except for hundreds of bicycles. She has become involved with politics, following the retirement of her father-in-law from the State Senate, after 10 years. Last year she was on the State Executive Committee for the Democratic Party, went as a delegate to the convention last summer. She has been named to "Who's Who in American Politics", also "Who's Who in Politics in the South and Southwest". "Is there some way I could be included in Atlanta's alumnae club?" she asked. "We're only 40 miles away."

ANN L. BROWN wrote from Dallas, Tex., with an order for Wesleyan china: "I so enjoy the publications I receive from Wesleyan. I am still flying for Delta . . . and believe quite a few Wesleyannes have gotten their wings . . . EDITH HAAS HILL has a daughter. She and Stan live in Jacksonville."

JEAN MEACHAM OWNBEY has moved "to a beautiful artist-type village by the bay at the foot of the Golden Gate Bridge — such gorgeous scenery!" She welcomes any Wesleyan friends coming that way to 525 Olive St. Sausalito, Ca. Husband Vern was transferred last June to Allied Chemical's Western office in San Francisco. "I do enjoy the magazine more and more as the years and miles make Wesleyan more distant for me", she writes.

SUZANNE WOODHAM LANGSTON taught in Jacksonville, Fla. until last summer, when she married and moved to Chicago, and also became mother of Bill's two children by a former marriage. She is working on her PhD in Educational Administration at the U of Chicago.

CINDY SAMFORD is teaching fifth grade in Birmingham, Ala., happy to be at home, reported her mother, a guest on campus this spring.

Sympathy to REBEKAH LORD SMITH, Antwerp, Ohio, on the death of her father, Hugh T. Lord, Macon, in Feb.

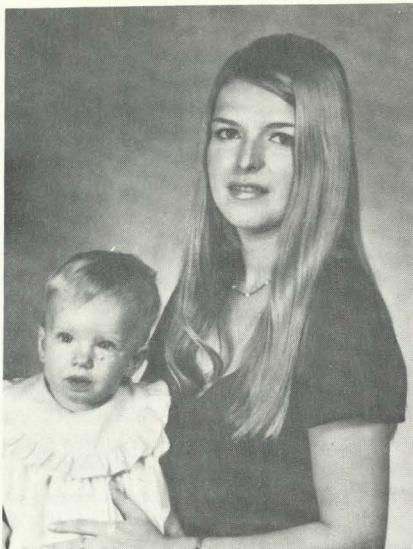

CONNIE CANNON FLOWERS (see Births) and her Tom are home again in Albany, Ga., after four years of travelling in the Navy, in Ill., Md., and Va. "Tom is at Ga. Southwestern, majoring in marketing and plans to graduate summa cum laude in Aug. I'm presently working in a private hospital here, in neurosurgery (graduated with an AA degree in nursing from Albany Jr. College in June of '69").

'70

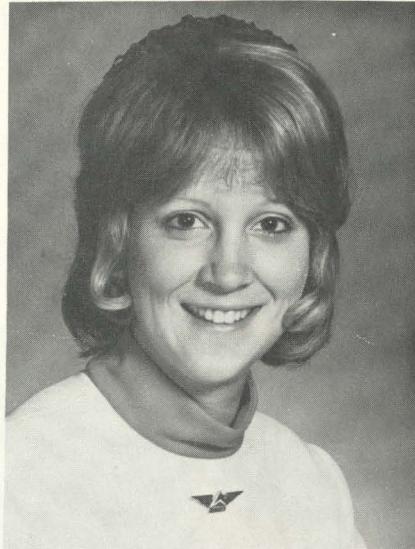

CAROL LEE WARD and James have moved from Niceville, Fla. to a new home in Valparaiso, Fla., where she teaches 40 piano students daily. They expected their first child last Aug.

LINDA GOULDING STEWART, Houston, Tex. (see Births), wrote in Feb. that they were eagerly awaiting Everett's transfer (FBI) and hoping to be sent closer to their home and college friends in Atlanta and Macon.

Ella Stringer Rawlins, '70, with daughter, Kimberly, at 10 1/2 months.

Patricia Ann Jones, '71, is a stewardess with Delta.

Margaret Elizabeth Perry (Maggie) was born Jan. 12, (8 lb., 9 oz.) to Andy and Donna Dingess Perry, '71.

'72

ELLA STRINGER RAWLINS: "I am now married to Claude Robert Rawlins, of Mobile, Ala., and have a darling 20 month old daughter, Kimberly Ann. As of March 26, 1973 I have my MS degree in mathematics from the U of Southern Mississippi. My plans are to teach math and enjoy my daughter . . . I read Wesleyan College NOW religiously . . . magazine helps me to keep up with my friends and with Wesleyan."

KATE GOLDMAN GHOLSTON has moved from Winter Park, Fla., to Valdosta, Ga., where her husband, Joseph, has been made District Manager of South Ga. for Dodge Div. of Chrysler. She inquires of a near-by alumnae club.

PAMELA MYERS CLARK, has a new address in Marietta, Ga. Her husband, Charles, was graduated from Mercer Law School last June, now is associated with a law firm. (See Births). "Thank you for sending me Wesleyan College NOW and other Wesleyan magazines. I really enjoy them . . ."

ELLEN BROOKS COBLEIGH, after marrying Jim in 1972, moved to Whitehall, Pa., where he is employed by Bethlehem Steel, presently as supervisor of inventory control. She teaches 2-5 year olds in a day care center, loves it. "I seem to be so far away from family and my Wesleyan friends. If there is ever anything I can do up here for recruiting, please let me know."

ANN WINSHIP BATES LEACH, Palm Beach, Fla., was the subject of a full page article in the Palm Beach TIMES in May. She was described in "Women of the Times" as one who is willing to share gifts from her garden as well as her purse, and a color photo showed her in light blue, carrying two baskets of blossoms, and wearing a hibiscus from her own garden. She was also pictured with the president of the U of Miami eye institute she has generously endowed. "Ann Winship Bates was an only child, a pretty girl who married rather than go to college", said the writer. "Today she treasures the title of Honorary Alumna conferred on her recently by Wesleyan College." Noted for her support of a legion of good causes, Mrs. Leach, a long-time friend of the College, contributed a million dollars to Phase II of Wesleyan's Capital Gifts Fund, and has made possible an elevator for the Candler Alumnae Center.

HELEN PENDLETON JOHNSON and her family are leaving Hawaii July 1 and plans to return to Macon where husband Mike, with military service completed, will enter law school at Mercer and 3-year-old Darc will become a pre-schooler. After her "two wonderful years" at WC Helen obtained her AB at Chaminade College, Honolulu and in May was to receive an MA in Education from Pepperdine U.

KATHLEEN WEEKS LEAMAN has moved from Chamblee, Ga., to Jacksonville, Fla. This past year she taught high school biology and physical science in Norcross, Ga., and is now waiting for a job as biologist for the State of Fla.

Aloha Carnival

A week of luxury in Hawaii is waiting for Wesleyannes and their families. Departing Nov. 4, 1973, from Atlanta on American Airlines, the trip will cost $399 complete, plus 10% tax and services. Included are eight days at the deluxe Hawaiian Hotel, meals, sightseeing, host escort, etc. Why not send a deposit TODAY ($100 minimum)? Make check or money order payable to "ALOHA CARNIVAL", and mail it to the Alumnae Office, Wesleyan. Aloha!

Letter to Stricklands From Linda Brown, '73

"I certainly felt honored last Thursday at the lovely reception in your home. I find it hard to believe that I am a senior when it seems like yesterday that I was an eighteen-year-old freshman.

"Wesleyan has meant so much to me and I know this feeling of pride will continue to grow in the future. Upon graduation I hope to assume the role of a concerned and conscientious alumna. Many thanks for your warm hospitality."
